- Are you facing, for the first time, as a single or a couple, the challenges of managing your money and are not really sure how to do it?
- Do you think that you have adequate income but never seem to have enough money?
- Do you feel out of control when it comes to money and try to avoid thinking about it?
- Do you think that you should know about how to manage money, but were never taught and have tried to figure it out on your own, but never get a good handle on the process?
- Do you know how much you can really afford to purchase a house?
- Are the balances on your credit card increasing and you do not know why they are going up or how to stop it?
- Do you and your spouse not see eye-to-eye on how much money should be earned and spent that it has led to increasing family tension?
